Baywest Homes' Cranston Estates show home has "executive" written all over it

ELEGANCE

Nothing speaks more eloquently about one's standing in society as one's home; it really is a reflection of how we see ourselves, an extension of our character. And if you see yourself as a corporate executive, a captain of industry with a growing family, then Baywest Homes' Sadona will speak volumes of your place in the world.

The Sadona show home, in the executive enclave of Cranston Estates, has every refinement imaginable that one can expect in this exclusive neighbourhood in the southeast. The Renoir next door shows Baywest's mastery in building executive bungalows, while Sadona displays its award-winning quality craftsmanship in the two-storey home.

From its exterior looks to the way the layout was designed to maximize all available space inside, the 2,808-square-foot Sadona simply is tops in the style department. A Tudor exterior with elaborate stone and stucco detail gives it a dignified air, especially with the arched threshold that creates such visual appeal, further enhanced by the numerous oversized windows throughout the frontage.

Its intent to impress is apparent as soon as you step through the front door to its roomy foyer with its state-ly tile insert detail over the hardwood flooring that adds a classy touch, there is even a little alcove with a built-in bench next to the coat closet to give arriving guests a comfortable space to shed their outerwear.

Over to the right is an even more spacious mudroom. "The design of the mudroom is sometimes even more important because it is what the owners use daily, and >>
